

Cruise FAQ

What are the different types of staterooms/suites?

A: On board accommodations are broken into four main categories:

- Interior
- Ocean view
- Balcony
- Suite/Deluxe

All accommodations are designed to be comfortable places you can kick back and relax in after a day of adventure. Staterooms and suites vary by ship, but every room offers a television, telephone, private bath, shower, vanity and a hair-dryer. Depending on your stateroom/suite category, your accommodations may include other amenities such as bathrobes, sitting areas, even a whirlpool tub!

What size will my stateroom/suite be? The simple answer is: they're all different. Please contact your Travel Agent for the size of your specific stateroom/suite.

What amenities are offered in the staterooms? Staterooms and suites vary by ship, but every room offers a television, telephone, private bath, shower, vanity and a hair-dryer. And, like a fine hotel, all staterooms provide soap, shampoo and conditioner.

Depending on your stateroom/suite category, your accommodations may include other amenities such as bathrobes, mini bars and more. Please check with your Travel Agent to find out what specific amenities are included in your stateroom/suite.

Can I keep valuables in my stateroom? Most ships provide a safe in your stateroom where you can store your valuables.

Is it safe to travel in a balcony stateroom with children? While it is safe to travel in a balcony stateroom with children, we recommend small children not leave children on the balcony.

What are the benefits of cruising over other types of travel? Sure, there are pros and cons to all types of travel, but cruising has become a popular option for a number of reasons:

With so much included in the price - like meals, onboard performances and more - cruising offers tons of bang for your buck. A variety of onboard and onshore activities make cruising fun for everyone from spa-lovers to adventure-seekers to sun worshippers.

Traveling from port to port is a snap, no need to worry about directions or unpacking. You'll wake up in an amazing new place, refreshed and ready to explore.

What if I want to travel farther inland? If you want to visit incredible inland cities like Paris, France or Anchorage, Alaska try one of the exciting cruise tours. A cruise tour is a vacation package that includes a cruise and an escorted land tour. The land tour is taken before or after your sailing, with travel by deluxe motor coach or train. Cruise tours are offered in Alaska, the Canadian Rockies and Europe. Or, try a river cruise in Europe, North America, South America or China.
